

www.sacramentofoodbank.org

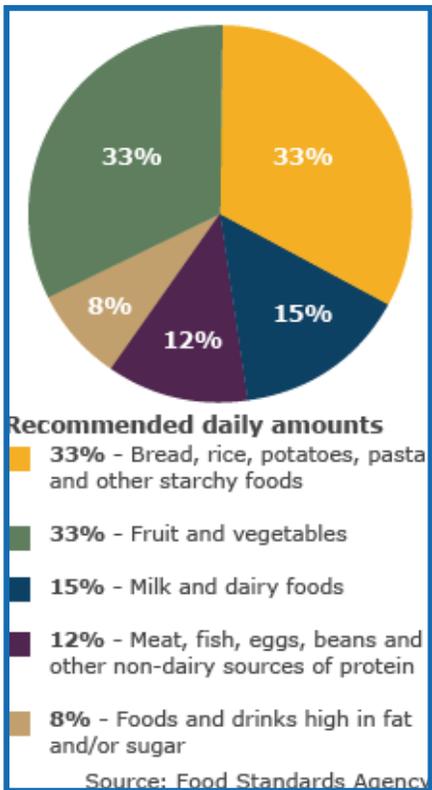

What's on Your Plate?

A balanced meal consists of five food groups: vegetables, fruits, grains, protein and dairy. It is important to eat a balanced meal as it prevents disease and infections, helps control weight, promotes healthy body growth and improves mental health.

A Balanced Meal

Balanced Portions

What's your Nutritional Choice?

Protein

- Mixed nuts
- Almond butter
- Beans
- Lentils
- Seeds
- Split peas

Fruit

- Cantaloupe
- Watermelon
- Apples
- Oranges
- Plums
- Peaches

Dairy

- Low fat milk
- Almond milk
- Cheese
- Soymilk
- Rice milk

Grains

- Brown rice
- Wild rice
- Whole wheat
 - Bread
 - Pasta

Vegetables

- Spinach
- Broccoli
- Squash
- Carrots
- Cabbage

Unhealthy Foods to Avoid

- Foods with added sugar and high fructose corn syrup
- Refined grains — especially gluten grains
- Trans fats
- Artificial sweeteners
- Foods that are highly processed